

Directions: In your neatest handwriting, copy the following text on a separate sheet of lined paper.

Copy Dictation

Morning, noon and nightfall they sang their office together as they walked along, and just as the first stars came out each evening, they sang their good-night hymn to Our Lady. Then, after the last notes of the Salve Regina had died away, they rolled themselves into their cloaks and slept under the stars.

- Sr. Jean Dorcy